

Responsible Travel Tips

Responsible travel maximizes the benefits of tourism while minimizing tourism's negative consequences!

Before You Leave:

Do Your Research

- Consult guidebooks and online resources about your destination's environmental, social and political issues
- Look for websites specializing in responsible/sustainable travel options
- Check if the companies you are considering have achieved recognition in leading responsible travel competitions (such as World Travel & Tourism Council's Tourism for Tomorrow Awards and ResponsibleTravel.com's World Responsible Tourism Awards)
- Check if the companies have eco-certifications and eco-awards or labels
- Ask about environmental policies and practices of hotels & tour operators you are considering
- Ask if the tour operator or hotel supports any local conservation or community-development projects (see CREST's www.travelersphilanthropy.org)
- If you're interested in 'voluntourism' carefully investigate the local projects (see CREST's Dos and Don'ts of Travel Giving & Travelers' Philanthropy Handbook)

Make Your Transportation Count!

- Explore eco-friendly transportation– Are low-carbon or public transportation options available, such as trains or buses?
- When traveling short distances, try not to fly. When flying, choose direct flights when possible, on larger planes and/or newer, more fuel efficient fleets
- "Offset" the carbon emissions from your flights to mitigate your carbon footprint
- Choose "green" airports, like Seattle-Tacoma International, Portland International JetPort, Baltimore-Washington International, and San Francisco International, which are taking steps to be more sustainable

While You're There:

Be Responsible with Giving and Buying

- Eat in locally owned restaurants, and stay in locally-owned lodges, hotels and B&B's
- Buy locally made handicrafts and products
- Never buy crafts or products made from protected or endangered animals
- Hire local guides – make sure they are licensed and live locally
- Pay the fair price – don't engage in overly aggressive bargaining
- Think twice about giving money to children – this can perpetuate a cycle where children are sent to beg rather than school

Be Culturally Sensitive

- Ask for permission before entering sacred places, homes, and private land
- Always ask for permission before taking photos of individuals
- Dress appropriately for local customs
- Learn some words and phrases in the local language

Be Environmentally Conscious

- Refrain from taking seashells, coral or other natural objects
- Always carry your trash away from natural sites to dispose of properly
- Recycle and compost waste when possible
- Use limited resources wisely, such as water, fuel, and electricity
- Stay on designated trails and observe set distances from wildlife – never provoke, touch, or otherwise engage animals
- Be an animal-friendly traveler; we suggest at minimum following the 5 Freedom, explained by Born Free, and avoiding circumstances that endanger animal welfare

When You Return:

Help Perpetuate Responsible Travel

- Share with others your experiences and promote responsible companies, destinations, and practices (blogging, social media, etc.)
- Consider making a donation to programs that give back and benefit the local community you visited
- Integrate further responsible travel suggestions into future trips
